Good news for Maintenance personnel

Maintenance Technicians, always prefer to replace existing the machinery spares, accessories, and consumables by the same make and model, if they start malfunctioning. In short, they look for an direct replacement (one to one replacement) product.

We at Omkar Enterprises, provide this unique service of supplying one to one replacement products to our clients especially to their maintenance departments. A typical flow chart given below, explains the nature of this service, which we provide to our every client.

Depending upon the origin of the products, we request our business associates located in Germany, Japan, USA and Singapore, to source the products and supply it to us in the shortest possible time.

Since we are supplying the same existing part the maintenance technician has to remove the old part and put the new part.

This shortens the break-down time and the cost of the production unit, which results in the better manufacturing output.
